CHAIRS

The Restaurant

From staff canteens and breakout areas to restaurants, cafés, bars and hotel dining rooms, we supply seating for every kind of commercial space. A chair here gets sat on, leaned back in, dragged across the floor and stacked away, every day, by people who did not buy it. So we specify for the environment rather than the look alone: frames tested to contract standards, upholstery rated well beyond domestic abrasion.

Hard-wearing polypropylene for high turnover spaces. Solid oak, ash and beech where warmth matters. Steel, aluminium and powder-coated frames. Fully upholstered, wipe-clean vinyl, or open-back timber.

Custom fabrics, stains and finishes across the range, with Crib 5 certification where your specification calls for it.

The Bar

Coffee points, canteen benches, agile working tables, hotel bars and restaurant counters. Stools do the same job as chairs but at height, where a badly specified seat becomes obvious fast. Height is the thing to get right: counter stools for worktops around 900mm, bar stools for counters around 1100mm. And a footrest is not a detail, it is what makes sitting at height comfortable.

Upholstered, timber, polypropylene, cane or powder-coated steel. With or without backs and arms. Fixed height, gas-lift swivel, or stackable where storage is tight.

Tell us your counter height and we will match the stool to it. Custom fabrics and finishes throughout.

TABLES

The Dining Room

Canteens and cafés, breakout and meeting rooms, poséur tables at coffee points. A table gets judged on two things people notice within seconds: whether it wobbles, and whether they can get their legs under it. Both come down to the base rather than the top, which is why we specify column, four-leg and trestle bases to suit the seat count instead of defaulting to whatever matches.

Laminate, compact laminate, solid timber, veneer and ceramic tops. Column, four-leg, trestle or cantilever bases. Round, square and rectangular, from two covers to full bench runs.

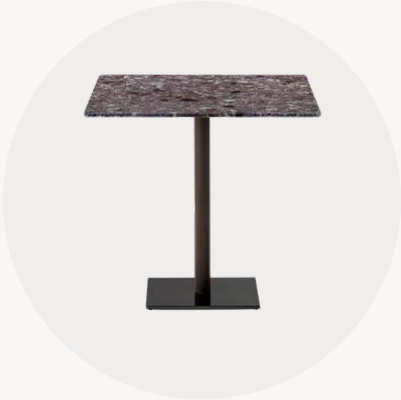

Flip-top and folding options where rooms change use, and power modules where people work rather than eat.

The Lounge

Receptions and waiting areas, breakout corners, hotel lobbies and the quiet end of an open-plan floor. Lounge seating does more than fill space: it signals welcome, absorbs sound, and creates zones without building walls. It also takes more punishment than it looks. A domestic sofa flattens inside a year of commercial use, so we specify foam densities and frames built for people getting up and down all day.

Two and three seaters, tub and armchairs, modular systems that curve around a space. Fully upholstered, timber-framed, buttoned leather or plain wool.

Every upholstered piece can be supplied to Crib 5, with fabrics rated for commercial abrasion.

The Outdoors

Terraces and beer gardens, rooftop bars, courtyards and pavement cafés. Outdoor furniture fails differently to everything else in this brochure: it is not wear that finishes it, it is weather. Colour fades, steel rusts, cushions hold water and cheap frames go brittle after two winters. So everything here is UV-stable, rated for outdoor commercial use, and specified to survive a British year rather than a good summer

Powder-coated aluminium and steel, teak and hardwood, all-weather rope and woven cord, moulded polypropylene. Dining chairs, benches, loungers and full lounge sets.

Quick-dry foam and drainage where cushions stay out, and stacking options for the months they do not.
